

Future-proof bathroom

In recent years, more and more Dutch people are expected to be and remain self-reliant. This means that you will have to live in your own home longer or longer now or in the future. The small things that are still easy now will become more difficult or sometimes even impossible as you get older.

Let's face it: nothing is as nice as a warm bath after a long day at work or a long sports session. You are still young, so that is no problem. Fill the bath, take clothes off and hop in the bath and enjoy. So you want to have a nice bath in your new bathroom, an excellent choice! The bathroom is slightly above budget, but you will certainly enjoy this for 15 to 20 years, so it is worth the extra few euros.

However, what you need to keep in mind is that you will not remain spry and flexible for eternity. You get older and your body becomes stiffer. Stepping in the bath like you used to do is getting trickier, and nowadays you actually use the shower more and more while you long for the warm water on your aching joints. A walk-in bath can be the perfect solution for this. You can open the watertight door in the bath rim. You cross a low threshold and sit effortlessly in the bath where you can enjoy the warm water. A good example is the Twinline from Artweger.

Besides the fact that a walk-in bath is perfect for the age as you get older, it can also be very practical for small children. These often have difficulty climbing over the high pool edge. They have to be lifted into this or they take breakneck speed to clamber into it.

This is immediately removed by the door and the children can easily take a bath themselves.

We are getting older and want to live independently for longer. This is also a point of attention when renewing the bathroom. Thanks to a few clever things, the bathroom remains comfortable, even if you are a little less mobile. Read more about safety and bathrooms.

Contrary to popular belief, Lorem Ipsum is not simply random text. It has roots in a piece of classical Latin literature from 45 BC, making it over 2000 years old. Richard McClintock, a Latin professor at Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia, looked up one of the more obscure Latin words, consectetur, from a Lorem Ipsum passage, and going through the cites of the word in classical literature, discovered the undoubtable source. Lorem Ipsum comes from sections 1.10.32 and 1.10.33 of "de Finibus Bonorum et
