

Bathroom layout: options for all types and sizes of bathrooms

A good bathroom layout is extremely important for optimal comfort. Whether you have a small bathroom, a sloping roof or enough space, you always want to get the most out of the space. Do you have no idea about how you can organize your bathroom the smartest? Start at the base:

Different types of bathrooms

Bathroom design

When designing a new bathroom, more things come into play than you initially think. That is why it is important to first of all have clear what options your space offers and how you can best organize it. By making multiple designs for the bathroom, you can compare the possibilities and decide on the basis of which design fits best. Then you can proceed to the next steps, such as determining the wall and floor, choosing the right bathroom furniture and adding accessories if necessary.

Bathroom with bath

A bath in your bathroom provides extra luxury and relaxation. In addition to the well-known bath against the wall, there are all kinds of bathtubs. Think of a freestanding bath for when you have a lot of space in your bathroom or a shower and bath in one if you have less space and still want to enjoy a bath.

Walk-in shower

The walk-in shower in the bathroom is a popular product. With a single wall alone, you can create a walk-in shower in your bathroom. This looks very spacious, making it an option even for smaller bathroom spaces. The walk-in shower comes in different shapes, such as a loose or freestanding wall or a wall against the wall.

The ideal bathroom layout meets all your wishes and needs. Therefore, consider how the bathroom is used. By one person at a time or with two or more? Also consider whether you like a tidy bathroom. In the bathroom layout, take into account handy storage space. Start with the big elements like the shower, a bath, toilet and furniture, but don't forget to create space for accessories.

Special bathroom layout

In addition to the standard bathroom layouts, you can also consider a special arrangement. If the bathroom is adjacent to the bedroom, an en-suite bathroom may be an option. By means of a glass wall you involve the bathroom in the bedroom and you create a spacious whole. There are also creative solutions for small spaces or separate shaped spaces. For example, a bath that is narrower at the foot end.

Bathroom furniture for a perfect bathroom

Your bath is in place, the shower is installed, water is flowing from the tap, the toilet is well laid out... time to enjoy your bathroom. Or not? A bathroom is only really finished when all bathroom furniture has also been selected.

The right bathroom furniture not only brings harmony, it is also the perfect way to store your towels, shower gel, shaving cream and other toiletries. At bath installations you will find many beautiful, modern, classic, basic and rural bathroom furniture that complete your bathroom.

Different types of bathroom furniture

A bathroom cabinet is more than a normal cupboard for storing toilet accessories. It is part of the atmosphere in your bathroom.

That is why it is important to choose a bathroom cabinet that suits your taste and wishes.

Always choose a bathroom cabinet that perfectly matches the colors and atmosphere of your bathroom.

To help you, we have already built various bathroom furniture for you in our showroom.

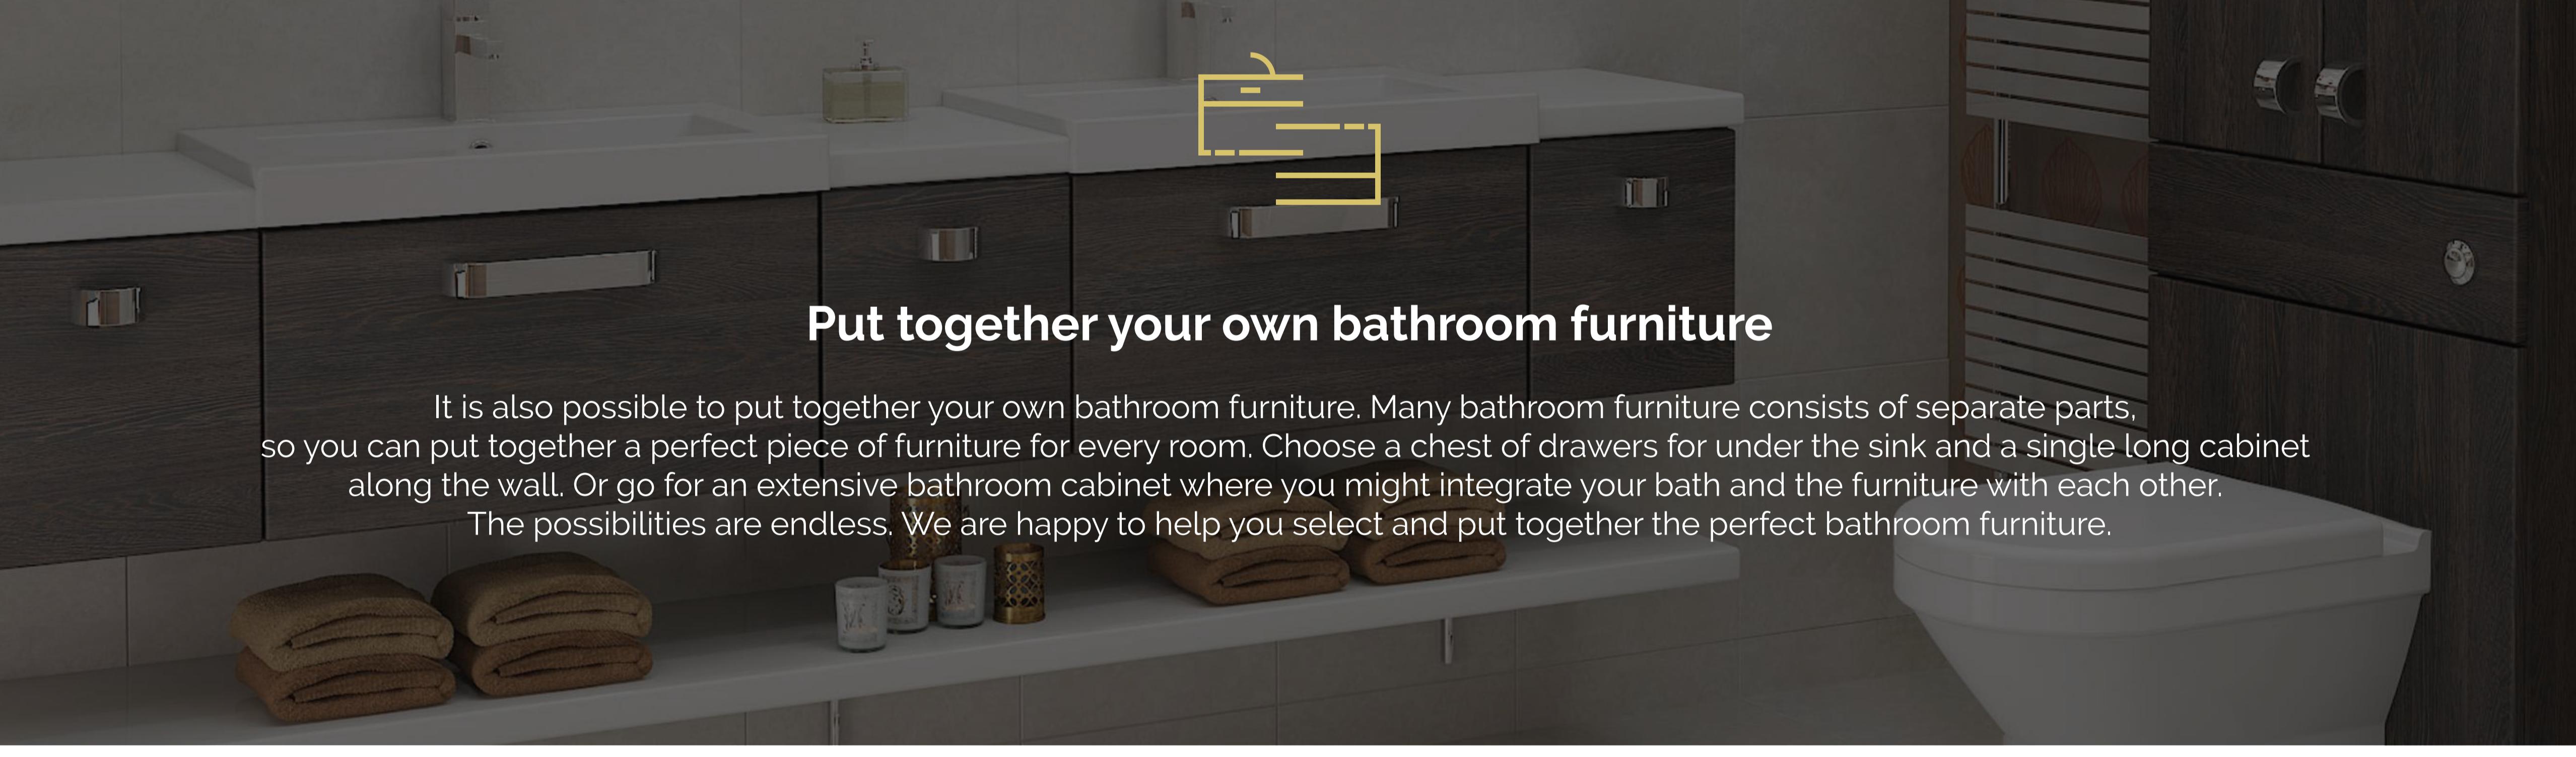

Come by and find the perfect piece of furniture for your bathroom.

Put together your own bathroom furniture

It is also possible to put together your own bathroom furniture. Many bathroom furniture consists of separate parts, so you can put together a perfect piece of furniture for every room. Choose a chest of drawers for under the sink and a single long cabinet along the wall. Or go for an extensive bathroom cabinet where you might integrate your bath and the furniture with each other.

The possibilities are endless. We are happy to help you select and put together the perfect bathroom furniture.

Washbasins are available in various materials.

Consider: concrete, mineral, natural stone, composite and - currently a real trend - Solid Surface, with a matte look. Choose the material you like in your bathroom, but also think about ease of use. For example, ceramics are easy to keep clean, as is tempered glass. There is just as much choice for your bathroom furniture: from right angles to round shapes and from materials such as warm wood to sleek natural stone.

Do you like unity and peace? Then choose a bathroom cabinet that perfectly matches the colors and atmosphere of your bathroom.

Can it be a bit more daring? Then a bathroom cabinet in a bright color might be something for you.

Or combine gloss with a matte finish or plastic with wood. The Forrest type from the Ben brand and the No Limit from Detremmerie are popular bathroom furniture. But together with bath installations you can also put together your ideal bathroom cabinet yourself. Come to one of our branches for personal advice.

A tap for every bathroom

The faucet in your bathroom makes your bath and sink complete. An indispensable piece of technology, and if you want a stylish addition to your bathroom. Bathroom faucets come in different models and designs. Some important basic choices at a glance:

Surface-mounted or built-in tap. You only see the handles and spout of a built-in tap, because all pipes are concealed in the wall.

A surface-mounted tap, including shower connection, is completely on the wall or on the bath or sink.

Single lever tap or mixer tap. With a Single lever tap you can tap both hot and cold water with one lever. Mixers are operated with two buttons, one for warm and one for cold water.

High or low spout. A tap with a high spout directs the water jet down a longer arc or angle. This gives you more freedom of movement under the tap than with a low spout. Useful when rinsing your hair for example.

Tap with waterfall spout. It has been commonplace in swimming pools and spas for some time. But now you also experience the massaging power of a waterfall in your own bath or sink.

Choose a tap? Need some useful tips?

Each type of tap has its own characteristics in terms of functionality and ease of use. We advise you to pay attention to the following points when choosing a crane.

Practical options

It is not possible to install a tap in every wall. Therefore, first check whether a built-in tap is possible in your bathroom. Otherwise, choose a surface-mounted crane.

Ease of use

Cranes are becoming easier to use and are becoming more and more functional. There's even a remote-controlled digital thermostatic valve that remembers your favorite water temperature.

In any case, make sure that all family members can use the crane.

A high spout tap is often more practical than a low spout tap. And in terms of ease of maintenance, the built-in tap wins; due to the sleek finish, it has fewer parts that trap limescale and dirt.

Safety

A thermostatic valve keeps the water at the set temperature. There are also additional safety options. For example, you can choose a tap that does not get hot on the outside. Fine with small children.

Water saving

When your tap water heats up quickly, less water flows meaninglessly down the drain. With a Single lever tap you therefore waste less water than with a mixer tap. The sensor tap is the most water-saving.

Design

Choose a faucet that matches the style of your bathroom. You can choose from various shapes and materials; rectangular or round. Did you know that nowadays, in addition to a shiny chrome or matt steel faucet, you can also opt for a very modern black or white faucet?

A shower for every bathroom

You use your shower intensively. To get clean and fresh, but also for relaxation, to warm up after a heavy rain shower and to really wake up in the morning.

Are you going to pick a new shower? Then you want all the ease of use and luxury you need. And of course your shower can be a nice design addition to your bathroom! Choosing a shower is nice, but not that easy.

What will your shower be?

For example, do you take a walk-in shower with a shower enclosure or a shower cabin? And which thermostatic valve meets your requirements? During your orientation answer the following questions, then you are assured of a well-considered choice of your shower.

How much space do you have? Whatever size your shower room has, there is almost always a suitable shower cubicle or shower enclosure. Maybe even a bath with a shower enclosure fits in your bathroom. Is your space limited? Then remember that transparency is important. A shower in a niche or a shower cabin take up (to the eye) a lot of space. While a glass shower enclosure provides an airy and spacious effect.

Which functionalities do you find important? Do you make it a real wellness or is a basic shower fine for you? Many shower systems have multiple jets of water, from a shower with a cooling mist to a firm massaging rain shower. There are even showers with lighting, with a digital tap or a button with which you can change the water jet with one push. All those extra functions sound good, of course, but consider what you really use in your shower.

What suits the style of your bathroom? You can make a walk-in shower as pronounced as you want. If you go for neutral, you usually end up with a wall of transparent glass, plastic or frosted glass. But a shower with processed or tinted glass is also possible. Shower cubicles leave a mark more. They are available in various sizes and shapes, with or without decorated glass. You can also go in all directions with regard to the shower faucet. Most have a modern look. But there are also nostalgic examples that fit well in a country style. A built-in shower forms a stylish whole with your bathroom. A nice option if you are going to renovate.

Are you going for cleaning convenience? For example, choose a shower floor instead of tiles in your walk-in shower. This makes it easy to keep your shower clean due to the lack of joints. Smooth and uninterrupted surfaces are easy to keep clean; a smooth shower enclosure is therefore ideal. You will see limescale on it faster.

The shower floor

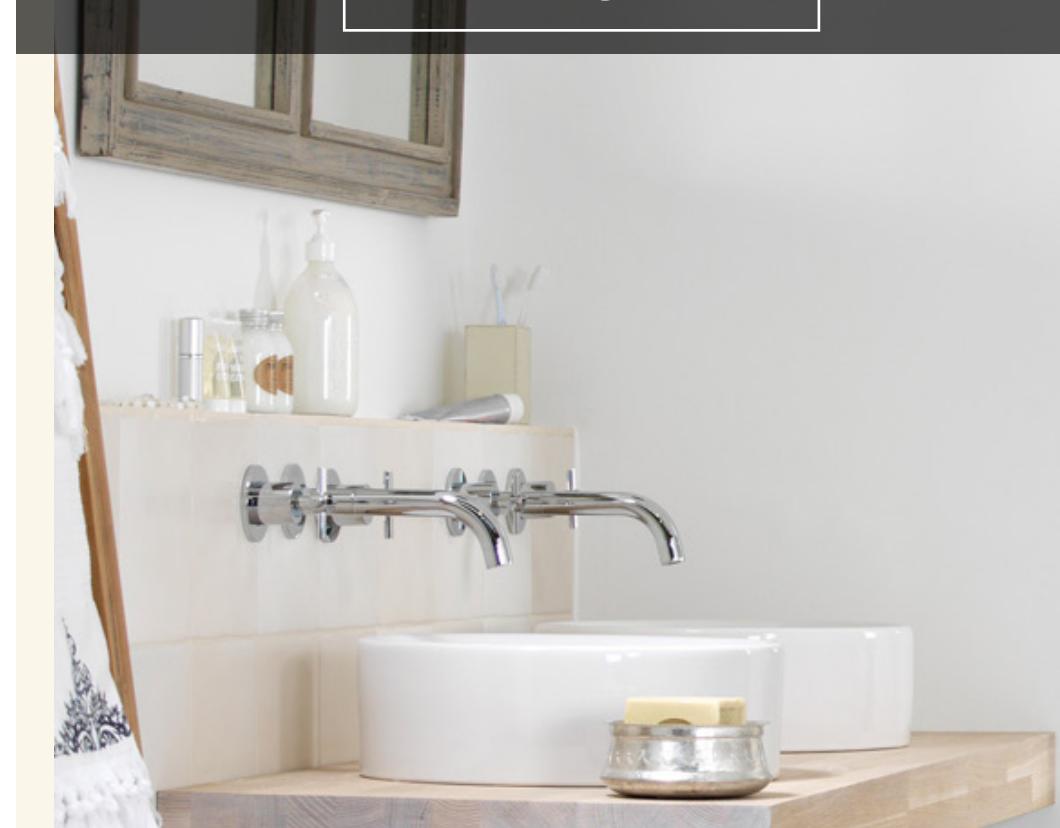

There are also a number of options for the floor of a shower. By running the bathroom tiles in your walk-in shower, the bathroom looks more spacious and you can extend the style of the bathroom to the shower. This is nice, for example if you have a small bathroom. However, a separate shower tray from one material has also become increasingly popular. These floors have no joints and are therefore easier to keep clean. In addition, shower floors are available in all kinds of colors so that there is always a floor that suits your bathroom.

Washbasins

Brushing teeth, washing hands, shaving ... it all happens above the bathroom sink or toilet. A sink is also used to quickly refresh yourself with a washcloth or to wash the face. And whether you are looking for a washbasin for the guest room, the toilet or the bathroom: with bath installations you will always find the washbasin that suits you and your interior.

Washbasin: table to wash yourself

What we now call a washbasin used to be literally a washbasin: a table with a large, often porcelain or stone washbasin with water. Next to it was usually a special pitcher with heated water. Because that bowl and table combination is still in demand today, you'll see plenty of old-fashioned sink-inspired wash bowls in the country bathroom. However, these sinks do have a drain, as well as a tap to replace the old-fashioned ewer. You can choose different materials when it comes to the sink, both the bowl and the table.

Modern design washbasins

In addition to the old-fashioned washbasin combinations, there are of course also sleek design, basic, double, round, square, oval and rectangular washbasins. There are also nice small washbasins in the collection, especially for the smaller toilet areas. For example, there is always a sink that fits perfectly with the rest of your bathroom, the attic or guest room. Because you can also choose a washbasin for this.
